Find an incorrect address on the web?

What to do? When an address is found to be incorrect on the internet and the official Charlotte County records show it correctly, there are several independent companies that update the large mapping websites, like MapQuest and Google Maps.

Instructions to correct an address or location:

Google Maps (Most Common Provider)

1. Open Google Maps.
2. Click Report a problem in the bottom right-hand corner of the map. If you don't see the tool, you can edit the map directly using Map Maker where available.
3. Select the type of problem under "Problem related to…"
4. Follow instructions for the type of problem you're reporting. For certain categories, you can select the "Email me when problem is resolved" box.
5. Click Submit.
